The Real Evil

The New York Times has a candid article on the real difficulty in the way of Southern Reconstruction. It says

The country accepted these terms of the President wise in themselves and in the opinion of many they were sufficient. But the Southern leaders turned indeed to scorn this fair the generous feeling of indemnity. The very men who had advocated the secession heresy and inaugurated the rebellion who had been forgiven again the war and the government of the rebel states and the Confederacy of their creation thrust themselves forward for all prominent positions they soon filled the houses of the South with men of this class they resumed the discussion of States Rights State Sovereignty and all the territorial issues which had resulted fatally to them followers the whole legislation was generally unfriendly to the adherents of the Union cause and hostile to the freedmen who were in no wise responsible for the results of the war. The crude ideas upon this subject have been one of the greatest sources of irritation. But they are as nothing compared to the prevailing assumption that the rebellion was right and the successful efforts to crush it wrong and cruel, that no one legally offended by resisting the United States authorities and that those who battled for the rebel flag are alone worthy of the rewards due to Southern patriotism. No party in the North which recognizes the justness of the Southern pretensions or undertakes to defend or justify the legitimate consequences of such teachings can ever succeed before the people. And until the Southern people learn to renounce their errors and to start upon ideas more consistent with law and order, all disagreements about remedies must result in the triumph of those who were all the time for the Union and for the war as the only means of its preservation. When the President wanted upon the restoration of the Southern States it was under the firm belief that the submission was in good faith and complete. Congress believed differently and demanded further guarantees. It must now be apparent to every thinking mind that the American people will never lower these demands. And yet it is apparent that the same unpracticable men are controlling public opinion there and that the majority of the people are following the blind guides who before plunged them into the bottomless pit.

THE SYNOD OF MISSOURI ON THE STATE OF THE COUNTRY.—The Presbyterians of the West are intensely patriotic. Witness the following adopted by the Synod of Missouri.

The Synod of Missouri, being convened the second time in Kansas and the first at Lawrence a locality made immortally memorable by the infamous Quantrell massacre would renew our previous assurances of sympathy with all who suffered bereavement at that time or during the war of rebellion of which that outrage was a part and would also renew our fervent thanksgiving, that by God's blessing on our country's arms that war found in the complete suppression of the rebellion.

At our last meeting we expressed our deep sympathy with the President of the United State in the trying circumstances in which the assassination of his renowned predecessor had placed him and in view of the difficult task thus imposed upon him, and gave assurances of our prayers that God would guide and bless him, as He evidently had done the martyred Lincoln.

We now seriously fear that neither we nor our people have borne the President upon our prayers so constantly, so fervently, or so trustfully as we should have done. We acknowledge this as a fault we pray to God to forgive it and we earnestly exhort all our ministers, elders and people to renew the habitual and earnest prayer for our Chief Magistrate, which was so signally answered during the last administration.

We desire still to give to the President and to Congress all possible sympathy, support and encouragement in all they may rightly do or attempt for the restoration of our country to peace and harmony and integrity, and to render due obedience to both in the legitimate exercise of their constitutional powers.

We lament the existing want of harmony between these two departments of the Government, and pray God to inspire both with such wisdom and grace as will heal their dissensions. We cannot but feel deep sorrow and shame that our President, on his recent tour among the people, has permitted himself to assault, with bitter and passionate words a co ordinate department of the Government to which he as the most eminent citizen ought to set before all others the example of respect and obedience. We earnestly pray that sober reflection may induce him to abandon a course which we deem so wrong and dangerous.

We also regret, in the shock of crimes of the land the President and his associates and the local officers who received him set an example of extravagant convivial indulgence the natural effect of which is to encourage and promote dissipation and intemperance among the people. We also regret all harsh and disrespectful utterances toward the President which have been indulged in by any members of Congress, yet we cannot but approve and commend the firmness and unanimity with which as a body the present Congress has maintained its constitutional authority, the fidelity with which it watches against violation of the plighted faith of the nation toward the freedmen and other loyal inhabitants of the States lately in rebellion, and the moderation and justice of the measures which it has enacted and the one which it has submitted to the people as amendments to the Constitution, for the purpose of safely and justly restoring all the States to the privileges and responsibilities of the National Union.

CHARLES DICKENS ON LONDON CLUBS.—Clubs are not now what they formerly were. Like many other things they have grown grander and more ostentatious with the progress of civilization and the increase of national wealth but it may be doubted whether what they have gained in splendor they have not lost in sociability and ease. A Club now is the generality of cases is a palace where the soul is dazzled with gilding and splendor in the midst of which we wander like lost spirits. You pace through magnificent halls in solitude worthy of Versailles and admire yourself in mirrors big enough to reflect the guard of Cormoran from head to foot. The Club has accordingly come to be regarded more as a piece of mingled convenience and show than as the scene of social gathering and intellectual recreation. It is a hotel for dining at, a house for smoking in an address for letters, a reading room a place for appointments a center of political influence—anything rather than a quiet meeting ground for equals and familiars, where ideas may be exchanged over the supper table or the pint of wine. A few Clubs of the old fashion as it remain but they are not likely to become more numerous. In the eighteenth century—the golden age of Clubs—all this was different. The Addisons and Steeles the Johnsons and Goldsmiths, the Garricks and Reynolds had a very single Club, they did not suffer themselves to freeze or parch in separate groups, scattered about a great desert of velvet pile carpet but gathered together in a room of moderate capacity where the electric currents of wit could circulate through the whole body of members. A few famished friends sitting around the same table meeting on stated evenings and breaking up when they liked gives one the best idea of Club life as it was a hundred years ago among the literary and artistic circles.

DESERVED PROMOTION.—We are pleased to learn that our townsman, Lieut George Williams has received a commission as Brevet Captain of Fourth Infantry regular army given for bravery and meritorious conduct on the field of battle at Gettysburg. On that field George was severely wounded and lost his right leg. He was the only Oregonian in that battle, and had been in the battles from the second fight at Bull Run until wounded at Gettysburg, four great battles and a number of skirmishes. This promotion is due in part to good will of the officers of his regiment who kept him in mind. After the battle he was promoted First Lieutenant on his discharge from the hospital he was retired from the army honorably as disabled for service.—Since then he has been principal mustering officer of Hancock's veteran corps, where he acquitted the bounty brokers by proving himself an honest man but there by gained the respect and confidence of his superiors and was trusted with very responsible duties. An Act of Congress can place him again in the line of promotion and he is able to peg around lively enough to answer all practicable purposes of war or peace.—Unionist.

The Impeachment

[From the Philadelphia Press October 29.]

The Richmond Examiner contains an interesting communication discussing at length the law and practices which regulate the impeachment of public officers. After showing the course taken in modified form in that of Great Britain the writer illustrates the causes which have been held to justify this fearful proceeding in that country by an enumeration of the alleged offences of the most prominent persons who have been summoned for trial. They were of the most varied character from trivial charges to high treason. Lord Strafford was condemned and executed for subverting the fundamental laws and introducing arbitrary power. Several ambassadors were tried for giving false information to the King, or making treaties offensive to the nation. Michael de la Poole was impeached for inciting the king to act against the advice of Parliament. The Spencers, for "putting good magistrates out of office and putting in bad." There were various other different species of neglect of duty—by taking bribes—and for pernicious councils. The conclusions of the writer in the first case are as follows:

The first impiry is what the President may be impeached for. The Constitution says he may be impeached for treason and bribery. What is misdemeanor in a public officer? Any violation of duty doing anything he ought not to do, neglecting to do anything he ought to do.

Any public officer is indictable for misbehavior in his office. [Redford vs. Thomas 6 modern R 96. Russell on Crimes 33.]

Any neglect of duty ground for impeachment. [Regina vs. Wyatt, 1 Salkeld's R., 381. Russell on Crimes 137.]

The general principle of the parliamentary law and the common law is that official misconduct is a misdemeanor.

Does the same rule prevail in regard to the Senate of the United States acting as a Court of impeachment? Judge Story in his Commentaries, decides this question in the negative. He says:

No one asserts that the power of impeachment is limited to statute offences. [2 Story, p 264 sec 795.]

Let he protests against the whole subject being left to the arbitrary discretion of the Senate "and mistakes that resort must be had either to parliamentary practice or the common law in order to ascertain" what are impeachable offences.

An inherent inquiry arises here. Is it necessary before the senate can act on a case of impeachment that a statute law should have been previously passed defining for what offences impeachment lies? It is a familiar principle that the Courts of the United States cannot take cognizance of any criminal offence unless it is an offence against some statute of the United States. In other words the United States Courts exercise no criminal jurisdiction derivable merely from the common law.

But when we consider that the parliamentary practice gives the House of Commons an unlimited discretion in the nature of the charges, provided they allege some violation of duty and the common law lays down a principle equally comprehensive as to and stable offences in officers we do not perceive that there is any difference practically, between leaving the whole subject to the arbitrary discretion of the Senate, which he objects to so vehemently, and leaving it to them under the restriction of parliamentary practice and the common law, which he admits, as we have seen, is also that orders were issued to Gen. Sedgwick from Washington to afford him all the assistance that he might require in sustaining the authority of Juarez, and instead of doing it he has assisted Canales, who is an open rebel to Juarez. Escobedo's close in killed, wounded, captured and deserted, foots up 74. During the fight on Tuesday morning Col Randall sent a message under a flag of truce to Escobedo informing him that the United States forces held the place, and directing that in no case should his forces advance beyond the forts. Escobedo without communicating with him Escobedo replied that he should be guided by circumstances that the American commander had promised him to withdraw all his troops, save 50 men, and that he had broken his promise by retaining 3,000 men in the place. Randall, who had received orders in no case to fire on Escobedo s men, immediately made arrangements to withdraw his men in case he should be attacked.

The following is the memorandum of an agreement entered into between Gen Sedgwick and Escobedo, prior to the attack.

First Gen Sedgwick assures Gen Escobedo

SATURDAY MORNING DEC 8 1866

The Government Has Kept its Faith

The Copperhead papers taking their cue from their rebel co workers accuse the Union party of dealing perfidiously with the South The terms on which the Union party proposes to restore the Union are characterized as infamous as violative of the engagements of the Government with the rebels President Johnson, it is said promised the revolted States that if they would accept certain conditions which he proposed to them, they should be fully restored to their former relations with the Government of the Union and should be received at once into Congress Will somebody have the goodness to show what right the President had to make promises like these? What right had he to engage that Senators and Representatives from those States should be admitted? The terms that were granted the rebels on their capitulation had no reference to the reorganization of civil government in the South The agreement was wholly military in its character. Gen Sherman in his treaty with Jo Johnston undertook to provide for the restoration of State governments and for the return of the rebellious communities to their former relations with the Government of the Union, but his action was disapproved and promptly annulled by President Johnson himself Nothing was promised the rebels on their surrender except that while they obeyed the laws they should not be molested by the United States It was not stipulated that they should have political rights, that they should be allowed to organize State governments, or that their members should be admitted into Congress The military conventions settled none but military questions. The Government has steadily kept its faith with the rebels in these matters It what respect then, has it proved perfidious? If the President has promised more than he is able to perform, the fault is solely his own If he engaged that members from the South should be admitted at once into Congress, he simply gave a promise which he had no right to make and no power to fulfill.

The National Treasury.

The Treasury report, of which the telegraph furnishes a synopsis affords a view of the national finances that is much more favorable to the country than the most sanguine person could have anticipated one year ago. Even before extraordinary expenditures by the Government had ceased even before the vast outlays of money incident to the state of affairs which has existed during the last eight months, could be cut off and expenses reduced within the limits that would suffice for a state of peace, the reduction of our great public debt began And not only has the reduction begun, but it is proceeding at a rate that must, if continued, extinguish the whole in less than ten years During the fourteen months prior to the first of November last, the rate of diminution was half a million dollars per day This fact, considering the heavy expenses of the Government, and the vast sum necessary for the payment of interest on the debt, is most astonishing. The resources of a country that is capable of achieving such a result are indeed prodigious There are not two other nations in the world which, by a combined effort, could accomplish so much

Though it is gratifying to our national pride to be able to perform what has never before been done and what no other people could do, it would be hardly wise for us to continue this effort merely for the glory of the thing, and undertake to complete in ten years by extreme exertion, what we could accomplish in twenty five with all ease There has already been, within a year, a considerable reduction of Federal taxes, and a further reduction might still be made, and leave a large surplus of revenue to be applied toward a discharge of the debt.

Alluding to the threat to indict him for exciting insurrection in Maryland, Colonel Forney keenly says "Our fate is evidently sealed Never having counterfeited money, got drunk in the Senate chamber, poisoned cities, starved prisoners, assassinated a white man, or murdered a score of blacks, we are removed from the pale of Presidential pardon, and must prepare for the worst"

The crops of Walla Walla valley for the past year are estimated as follows Wheat, 550,000 bushels, oats, 250,000 bushels, barley, 225,000 bushels, corn, 150,000 bushels, beans, 170,000 pounds It is estimated that 5 000 head of cattle have been driven from the valley to the mines during the past year

TELEGRAPH TO WALLA WALLA —The Walla Walla Statesman urges the construction of a line of telegraph from Portland to Walla Walla, and asks the citizens of the latter place to aid the enterprise. It says that it is estimated that the line can be put up for $25 000

Late Eastern News

We copy the following from the San Francisco papers of late dates

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—The Times' Washington special says, of the caucus of the Republican members of the House, that Hon. J S. Morrell of Vermont, was chosen Chairman, and E. C Ingersoll of Illinois Secretary. About 73 members were present.

Thad. Stevens offered a resolution that the Senate be requested not to confirm any appointment made during recess to fill vacancies caused by removal for political reasons. He made a sharp speech, and was followed by Boutwell of Massachusetts Kelly of Pennsylvania, and Darling of New York The scope of the speeches was a general overhauling of the character of the appointments that had been made during the recess, and the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr Darling offered a resolution that the Republican members of the Senate be each served with an authenticated copy of the foregoing resolution, and that the Chairman have discretion to decide who were Republican members.

Mr Stevens jocosely remarked that notice need not be sent to Mr Cowan, as he would speak for him.

Mr Stevens moved that a committee of ten be appointed, to take into consideration the passages of legislation necessary for immediate action by Congress, and report at an adjourned meeting.

The following are the members of the committee: Stevens, Schenck, Boutwell Allison, Washburn of Illinois, Paine, Hart Garfield, Orth and McRuer

Mr Stevens gave notice of intention to introduce a bill to regulate the tenure of office Its chief features are as follows It requires the President to submit to the Senate all appointments made during the recess, within twenty days of the convening of that body All appointees who may be rejected by the Senate shall be ineligible for any office under the Government for three years thereafter Removals shall be made only for malfeasance in office, and whenever it becomes necessary for the President to make a removal for malfeasance in office, he shall report his reasons for such removal within twenty days after the meeting of the Senate In case of the rejection of any person appointed by the President, the office shall revert to his predecessor, except in certain cases, and all subordinate appointments made by person so rejected shall fall with the rejection and their positions likewise revert to their predecessors

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1 —A disposition is manifested in the South to admit unqualified suffrage, impartial as to color Violent attacks on such papers as do not directly oppose it show that it is gaining ground as an equivalent of the universal amnesty of the ultra Union papers of the North.

MONTGOMERY, Dec 1 —In the Alabama Legislature today Brooke, of Lowndes county offered a bill to amend the State Constitution so as to give suffrage to all citizens who own two hundred dollars worth of property Lost—Ayes 21 noes 65 The bill was then laid on the table, 69 against 16

The Virginia Legislature meets at Richmond next week A movement will be made to call a Constitutional Convention, and to restore the people from their present indebtedness in ratio to their present property

Governor Pierpont will recommend the ratification of the Constitutional amendments

ST LOUIS Nov 23 —The Evening News says Gov Fletcher Hon B Gratz Brown Hon Henry T Blow and other prominent Radicals have inaugurated a movement in this city having for its object the rejection by the Legislature of the Congressional Constitutional Amendment, and an amendment of the State Constitution to abrogate the disfranchisement of rebels and to substitute universal suffrage.

NASHVILLE, Tenn Nov 25 —About 9 o'clock last Tuesday morning a meteor illuminating the whole heavens, was seen in the vicinity of Rome going rapidly southwest. It appeared like a ball of fire as large as the sun and exploded 2 parts of its mass off with a tremendous report like a 40-pound cannon that shook the earth and made window rattle

MEMPHIS, Tenn, Nov 25 —A special to the Avalanche from Little Rock says that a resolution passed the House directing the Committee on Federal Relations to present a memorial to Congress setting forth the spirit and disposition of the people of Arkansas their desire for the restoration of the Union and a speedy renewal of peace and their confidence and their willingness to concur in all measures to secure these results which may be consistent with the honor and dignity of the State A resolution rejecting the Constitutional Amendment was again referred to the Committee on Federal Relations by a vote of 6 to 7

NEW HOSE CARRIAGE.—We learn that Willamette Fire Co. No. 1 received a new hose carriage by the Oriental from San Francisco. It is a four-wheel silver mounted carriage and was purchased of the Gleason Hose Co San Francisco at a cost of $350. It formerly belonged to Confidence Hose Co of Sacramento, by whom it was sold to W B Dana Co. of Gleason Hose Co [illegible] $450 It is a well built carriage in California and admirably suited for the Willamettes meet to night to make arrangements for giving it a proper reception

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.—From Sept. 1st, 1864 to August 31, 1866, there were incorporated the following named companies of companies having their principal business in this city. 13 Mining Companies with an aggregate capital stock of $4,000,000 2 Churches, with property capital of $31,000; 1 Cemetery capital, $5 000 2 Iron Foundries, $25,000; 1 Insurance, $250 000 1 Printing and Publishing, $25,000; 1 Railroad $10,000 1 Portage, $20,000 1 Road, $50,000 Aggregate capital of all $4,707,100

THANKS.—The following acknowledgements are from the Lady Managers of the Catholic Fair

The lady managers of the Catholic Fair recently held in this city, for the purpose of laying sidewalks and building a fence fencing around the Catholic Church property, hereby tender their sincere thanks to the people of Portland for the very liberal patronage extended at said Fair, and express a hope that at no distant day they may be able to return, in part at least, the many favors received from them during the Fair

They would also take this opportunity to publicly thank Messrs J W Shuter and H L Herman for their valuable aid and assistance in the management of affairs during the first and second days of the Fair

We are informed that the net receipts amounted to $2,435 50 and that upwards of one thousand persons visited the Fair

LOST HER.—Col Gaston d'Artois, whom the late Portland dispatches mention as having been tried by court martial on board the brig Rasco at Cape St Lucas, was formerly a Captain in one of the California regiments and was for some time stationed at Ft Stevens Oregon. In October, 1865, he was tried by court-martial at Cape Disappointment on various charges, and subsequently dismissed the service

THE —The recruiting office in this city is doing as much as was supposed. The enlistments have, for the last three, averaged three per week All recruits obtained here are sent to Ft. Vancouver and are assigned to the 8th U S. Cavalry The greater part of the men enlisted have been in the volunteer service and many of them are excellent men

ANNUAL ELECTION.—The stockholders of the People's Transportation Company had a meeting at Salem on Thursday, and elected the following directors for the ensuing year: A A. McCully, Jos. Kellogg, L E. Pratt, George A. Pease, and E N Cooke The officers of the Board of Directors are, A A. McCully, President, and S. T Church, Secretary

A DOUBLE—HOFFMAN JUNOR.—The only victim of bad habits, up on Friday, was John Christian, who was up the night before in the unchristian act of being very drunk and lying around loose on Morrison street. He was sent to jail for two days to sober off On another charge of carrying a concealed weapon—he was given two days to jail.

THE RECENT EARTHQUAKE.—Most people have expressed surprise at the occurrence of an earthquake at the time, where such a thing was never before known within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. There is nothing surprising or at all uncertain about it. It was just a piece of sympathy to San Francisco

BEAUTIFUL DAY.—The weather, yesterday, was delightfully clear, bright and bracing. It came as welcome as the sight of oasis to the desert traveler. And didn't the ladies enjoy it? And didn't they ride out and walk out and go shopping and visiting and guilding and gossiping!

THANKSGIVING.—The eight sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, who arrived by the Orizaba on the 1st inst, we learn, are destined for the school in this city. The six Sisters of Charity are destined for the school at Vancouver.

THE RIVER.—The falling of the river, will probably enable the dredger to resume work in two or three days. The report of Superintendent Walker to the Council, last night, stated that she can work in 28 feet of water.

ARRIVAL.—We are informed that Mr. A. Hayward of California, who visited Oregon and Puget Sound last year, has bought a controlling interest in the Puget Sound Steam Navigation Company's stock We have no information as to the price paid.

ARRIVAL.—The schooner Champion sailed yesterday afternoon for Tillamook with about thirty tons tons of flour and one or two passengers. Of her freight, about twenty and a half tons were flour and the balance merchandise

ALSO FOR FORT VANCOUVER.—A military band is to be sent to Ft. Vancouver, under the direction of Gen. Steele, from the bands of the 1st Cavalry and 14th Infantry. For this purpose the 14th Infantry band is to return to Ft. Vancouver

IT IS SOLD.—The Bulletin of the 3d inst., noticing the arrival of the steamer Oregonian at San Francisco, says "owing to the decline in the Oregon trade, it is stated that the ship will be offered for sale"

ARRIVAL.—The Rescue arrived yesterday from Victoria with a few passengers and a cargo of baled hay, cattle and slaughtered hogs and calves. She reported quiet on the Cowlitz.

ANOTHER DAY TO THEE.—McCormick last evening received a fresh lot of the latest Eastern and California papers and periodicals. He has everything in the news line to be had.

ALSO SOME DAYS.—Sheriff Stitzel requests us to mention again that the time for paying taxes without costs or interest, will expire on the fifteenth inst.

FROM THE CITY.—The freight list of the Alert for Victoria, 219 sacks feed, 1,361 boxes apples, 1 package mdse, 1 box goods and 1 roll leather ARRIVAL.—Some fifty or sixty passengers arrived by the Alert yesterday, many of them bound for San Francisco.

ARRIVAL.—Gov. Woods arrived in this city from Salem, yesterday afternoon His visit has nothing official about it.

BARGAIN HOUSE.—Hayward, Coleman & Co., this week have their removal into new quarters and are opening a large and new stock of crockery, glassware, fancy china ware, etc., suitable for the holidays Holiday visitors will do well to look over their premises we can conscientiously assure them. And those who want to purchase a fine set for their own use or for a present to a friend, to go to Hayward, Coleman & Co.

NEW ARRIVAL.—If you want good bargains in fine clothing or fancy dress goods, of almost any variety, you will do well to read Weil Brothers' advertisement, and then go to the Weil Bros., themselves, who will convince you that you have called at the right place.

RETURN TO THE FAIRY.—Mrs. C Levy has now on exhibition a magnificent assortment of Cloth and Velvet Cloaks, and also a large lot of Furs which she received per steamer Oriental. We advise all ladies wishing to purchase such articles to give her a call.

GENTLEMEN about to purchase Winter Hats or Caps should visit the New Hat Store of J A Daly & Co, No 101 Front street, in Carter's new building. Their stock is full—all the new and desirable styles for men and boys now out, and at prices to suit the times.

OREGON.—It is just about a month since this institution opened for the reception of students In looking over the register we noticed students from Roseburg and other parts of the State, and conclude that our citizens "understand the value of an Institution where the principles of life are taught. Prof Lendenslager, the able and enterprising President informs us that he has now about forty letter and personal almost daily and expects the number of students to increase during the next few months to three or four times the present number, which is some twenty The National College of Music and Commerce, under its present management and efficient system of Instruction must prove a success, and there is not a business man in this city or State who is not interested in its prosperity It is doing a good work in Oregon and the Pacific coast what similar Institutions have and are doing for the Atlantic States Its graduates will go out men, fitted for the stern duties of life, they will become merchants; farmers and business men, and thus help in building up and developing the resources of our State, which is the only means that will continue to fill the coffers of our merchants and business men. To young man we would say that the advantages offered by a practical business education, such as can only be obtained at this Institution, is beyond estimation.

Willamette No. 1.—Special meeting this (Saturday) evening at 6 o clock precisely. By order
WM McMILLEN, Pres't.

STOP THAT COUGHING
SOME OF YOU CAN'T, AND WE PITY YOU. You have tried every remedy but the ONE destined, by its intrinsic merit, to supersede all similar preparations. It is not surprising you should be reluctant to try something else after the many experiments you have made of trashy compounds foisted on the public as a certain cure, but

Pulmonary Syrup
is really the VERY BEST remedy ever compounded for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Consumption Thousands of people in California and Oregon have been already benefitted by the surprising curative powers of

Pulmonary Syrup
and with one accord give it their unqualified approbation. We now address ourselves to all who are unacquainted with this, the greatest Panacea of the age, for the healing of all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, assuring you that has cured thousands and it will cure YOU if you try it.

Pulmonary Syrup

This invaluable medicine is pleasant to the taste, soothing healing and strengthening in its effects, entirely free from all poisonous or deleterious drugs, and perfectly harmless under all circumstances
Certificates from many prominent citizens of San Francisco accompany every bottle of

Ugliness and Wickedness

Throughout the middle ages it was a prevalent belief that the ugliness of the wicked—and the wicked were ever ugly—was in precise proportion to their wickedness and so the Spirit of Evil himself was over pictured as abominably hideous and revoltingly frightful very unlike the "not less than the archangel ruined, as in a outward sentiment is portrayed by Milton "As ugly as man, diabolically hideous" are phrases to be found in other languages besides our own In the same way virtue and goodness, the attributes of the saint the characteristics of the angel are habitually linked, both in idea and expression, with only er majestic charms or enchanting loveliness "As beautiful as an angel, seraphic beauty modes of expression familiar to our lips and furthermore quite usual enough when the desire is to convey approbation of a certain line of conduct, to say such conduct was "decidedly handsome" Hereby we discover the connection which unconsciously, perhaps, subsists in our minds between things which are true honest and just and things which are lovely

The Thracians, we read, were accustomed to shed tears on the birth of a child and if we were to credit M Blanchet a learned etymologist, the child itself exhibits no less regret on its appearance in a world of which yet it knows nothing Indeed according to M Bonnet, its first article expression is a reproach upon our first parents, but for whom its birth would have been impossible, the boys, as he says, crying A, A in derivative of their indignation against Adam and the girls whining E, F their feeble invective against Eve The tears of the Thracians are in our opinion susceptible of easy explanation in mind the repugnance of mankind to ugliness The Thracian wept with apprehension that the red faced, flabby dabby baby might possibly in its growth exhibit itself as unattractive and unin viting as it was at its beginning and the squalls of the newly arrived innocents may be referred to their consciousness that they were making their debut into life with an exterior decidedly unbecoming, if not actually repulsive Madame de Bonrignon is said to have been so hideous when born, that the motion was seriously entertained of smothering her, and thus sparing her a life of contempt, of scornful pity and crushing humiliation.

AN ADVENTURE WITH TOOMBS ON THE CONTINENT—HIS THIRST FOR A FIGHT WITH AN AMERICAN —A lady correspondent, a resident of Pittsburg, but now on a tour to the European continent, writing from Munich, under date of September 6th, 1866, relates an adventure which happened to the party of which she and other Pittsburgers were members, while ascending the Rigi The adventure took place at a resting place half way up the mountain, and is thus narrated:

Here occurred a scene which, in its exhibition of some of the worst features of human nature rather marred the effect of the beauty around us While on the boat I had observed some man talking and laughing very boisterously with several others who seemed to be ladies and gentlemen He was a large, loosely, but powerfully made man, but common looking in the extreme Walter told me it was Toombs, of Georgia, but I think none of the rest knew him. While we rested, this same man came out of the shed, where there were several other gentlemen sitting, and made some remarks to one of the girls about the scenery, Rigi, etc I thought he was intoxicated, but at last in some way, the subject turned to America, and he proclaimed himself a "rebel to the backbone," etc We spoke politely of our different opinions, but he only became more blasphemous MoC had recognized him by this time, and did not seem anxious to continue the conversation. At last Toombs said something about "the South not being conquered." "Would give us trouble yet" Without intending any offense, McC said, "What will you do it with?" O, how the wild beast in the old man's eyes glared He swore at McC, and said, "With blood and bones, and manhood sir, like I've got," and then his rage became uncontrolled McC answered him very quietly, that as they had used up everything they had in this inelinent struggle, he did not see where they were going to get any more But Toombs only swore at the Yankees, calling them all manner of names, saying we had hired men to fight the South, etc., the same old stuff about a Southerner being able to whip five Yankees, and as much more as you can imagine.

Of course, we were all aghast We could not even muster enough German to tell our men to lend the horses to Walter and to him Toombs, this is hardly the place for such conversation before ladies" The mention of his name seemed to solace him. He looked up in amazement "You know my name?" "Yes, sir, I do" Without a word more he turned away. By this time we had succeeded in starting our horses. McC stepped up to him and told him he was no gentleman to use such language before ladies. Whereupon Toombs called him a liar and rushed up to strike him, but Walter diverted him and McC walked on after us He wanted to have McC's card, would meet him anywhere to settle the matter, and a parcel more of such drunken nonsense I do not know how Walter ended it, but he left him, still thirsting for a fight with McC He had an open knife in hand, and besides being double was so large and strongly built that he would probably have been more than a match for them both Of course we girls were in a state of great excitement till the two gentlemen joined us

A CURIOUS RELIC —An ancient gold cross was found last Winter in an excavation in the ruins of Clare Castle, in England, of which the Queen desired to know the history As treasure trove, it became the property of the crown, and by the Queen's command the antiquarians have found out all about it There is strong reason, they say, for believing that it formed at one time a part of the royal collection of jewels belonging to King Edward III, for it is recorded that among its jewels kept for safe preservation in the Tower of London, "Un croys d'or double ovec diz rubies que ou, de les croys Jhesu Crist, at on pist ung pressse"—A cross of gold which represents the cross of Jesus Christ, set with pearls and cannot be valued" This description fully answers to the cross found at Claro, for that had four large pearls one at each transverse section of the cross, while the cross itself, with the figure of our Savior upon it, was most beautifully fobated, and the chain, about two feet long, was of the richest description How this precious royal jewel came to be found in the ruins of Clare Castle is thus accounted for "It was the common practice of our Sovereigns in former ages to bestow on their children and grand children, as wedding gifts, rare jewels and relics and as Edward III.'s grand daughter was married to Edmond Mortimer, the Lord of Clare, and upon her marriage came to reside at the Castle, she in all probability had this jewel given to her on the occasion, and it was by her taken to the Castle, where it got lost What confirms this history beyond all doubt, is the fact that this particular jewel, before described as old French, disappeared from that very time from the numerous inventories which are extant of the royal jewels. Thus this once royal jewel, which has been buried at Claro, lost for five hundred years, has once more come into royal possession.

CONSPIRACY AGAINST THE LIFE OF NAPOLEON. —The Berlin correspondent of the London Times, under date of October 8th, says:

We all remember those days of anxiety in the beginning of July, when the Emperor Napoleon having been appealed to by a defeated Kaiser, hesitated as to the course he should pursue We all felt a great relief when, determining for neutrality, he promoted the speedy restoration of peace, instead of plunging Europe into prolonged war, as he was requested. His motives have since been candidly explained by himself, and their wisdom and sagacity universally appreciated I do not apprehend it will prejudice his Majesty in the opinion of the world when I say that, in addition to the more public and political reasons which actuated him on that memorable occasion, he was influenced by a piece of private and highly interesting intelligence communicated to him about that time On the 6th of July the Grand Duke of Saxe Weimar was in a position to advise Napoleon III. of the existence of an Italian conspiracy, consisting of a number of young men who had sworn to take his life were the recovery of Venice prevented by his interference. The investigations immediately set on foot by the secret police of France confirmed the statement volunteered by the Weimar potentate. My informant supposes, but it is not certain that the latter derived his knowledge from persons of high trust at this court

WEEKLY REVIEW

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY 2 P. M. } Dec 7, 1866 }

There have been scarcely any changes worthy of note since our last report Trade is at present quiet without an exception or two Illuminating oils is the only article in the jobbing list which can be said to be in strong demand at present quotations There has been for the week a fair demand for groceries for the upper Willamette Outside of those articles the trade is confined to dullness though there is no special decline Flour is 50 cents higher all other brands unchanged There is a large amount in store awaiting shipment Our San Francisco quotations for yesterday are Superfine per sacks, $8 2@8 50, extra, $9 7@10 Of wheat the arrivals have been larger than for any previous week There has been heretofore little disposition to move and there is yet but little encouragement to start it

The freights awaiting the steamers consist mostly of flour, wheat and apples and the quantity is much greater than can possibly find carriage on the steamers to arrive this evening

VALUABLE

Real Estate and Personal Property

For Sale.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVE DISPOSED OF THEIR entire interest in the lumbering business to Messrs. Carter Hawden & Co and being desirous of closing up their own business immediately offer for sale the following described Real Estate and Personal Property to-wit

Real Estate.

All of Blocks No 21 and No 110 lying immediately below the Gas Works in the City of Portland Oregon, also a River Front Lot on the upper William ette Outside of those articles the trade has inclined to dullness though there is no special decline Flour is 50 cents higher all other brands unchanged There is a large amount in store awaiting shipment Our San Francisco quotations for yesterday are Superfine per sacks, $8 2@8 50, extra, $9 7@10 Of wheat the arrivals have been larger than for any previous week There has been heretofore little disposition to move and there is yet but little encouragement to start it

The freights awaiting the steamers consist mostly of flour, wheat and apples and the quantity is much greater than can possibly find carriage on the steamers to arrive this evening
